

Dear FCC, Statelike radio should not be hindered in their 1st Amendment rights. There is a market for both regular broadcast radio and XM. Many people will never want to pay for radio. To me it is the fulfillment of an old promise. In the old days when people complained about too many ads on TV and radio others would say "Well, you get it for free."

Nowadays TV is usually not free through cable or direct TV but we still have the ads! XM is the only one with integrity to collect subscription and not try to make more money through sponsors. OR is that really the issue here?

Please do not restrict their fair right to operate. Thank you
M. Litchfield
